

SHORT PROFILE OF JUDITH AGADA

Agada Judith is a creative writer who is passionate about development, governance and issues of human right. She is a certified development storyteller and holds a bachelor degree in Public Administration from Adekunle Ajasin University, Ondo State. Her passion for rural development spurred her to organize a number of school outreaches for indigent children of under-served communities in Ondo State. After observing a six months internship at the Centre, she is currently undergoing her National Youth Service Corp within the organization as a Programme assistant.
